THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Red Cross Free Again

Washington, Apr. 18. THE contract between the Red Cross and the labor unions, which so deeply distressed many thousands of Red Cross workers and contributors, has been ended—but not quite in the normal way. Instead of the Red Cross first declining to continue the arrangement, the CIO, in a public letter, first repudiated the Red Cross, allegedly because it is "undemocratic" in "not permitting" the CIO to participate actively in the "volunteer services of the local chapters."

PERHAPS Chairman O'Connor knew of this CIO desire (the CIO letter, in effect, says so), but extremely few others ever heard of it. And even fewer thought it a good idea. The general view is that the CIO took this step on the eve of the Central Committee meeting because it knew sentiment in the Red Cross and the country was overwhelmingly hostile to the renewal of the contract; that the Red Cross was sick of the arrangement and rather than risk the resignations sure to follow a renewal—and the inevitable handicap in the next campaign for funds—had determined to withdraw. In brief, the CIO "repudiation" was not "on the level." Knowing the facts in advance, it acted first, striking a typical blow at the party of the second part by hurling the absurd and unfounded charge that the Red Cross is "undemocratic."

THE truth is that Chairman O'Connor had talked with both the CIO and the AFL leaders about dropping the contract several weeks ago. Both knew it was going to be done. The CIO letter was a clear case of trying to get ahead of the Red Cross Central committee announcement. According to a member of the Central Committee it came as a complete surprise to the chairman and the committee, which unanimously decided to ignore the CIO charges and in its statement unconditionally tried to convey the idea that the alliance was merely a wartime affair and was being dissolved by "mutual agreement" because the war is over.

NO such suggestion was ever made in any previous Red Cross explanation of defense. Nor was it even hinted at in the official Emerson report of 1942 on the original reasons for making the contract. The CIO letter, of course, makes the "mutual-agreement" assertion seem ridiculous. Now that it is all over, there is a natural disposition upon the part of some to say that the CIO attack "serves the Red Cross management right;" that it never should have entered into the arrangement which violated the Red Cross voluntary tradition and clashed with its principles; that it

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

At a meeting of Newtown Parent-Teacher Association sponsored by the Newtown branch of the League of Women Voters, various borough officials gave short resumes of the various offices on Monday.

Among the speakers were Burgess Walter E. Scott, Councilman Clinton Greenlee, Borough Solicitor Charles W. Roberts, Jr., Justice of the Peace S. Paul Woodman, James D. Burns, president of the fire company, and Fire Chief Harrison Ettinger.

Mrs. Leroy Nixon, president of the League of Women Voters, introduced the speakers. Burgess Scott and Councilman Greenlee invited members of the association to attend meetings of council to see how it functions and to make suggestions as to what ordinances should be adopted and those which should not be adopted.

Alfred S. Jones, colored, of near Sellersville, was released under $1,000 bail for a coroner's inquest as the result of an accident in which a pedestrian was killed when struck by the car operated by Jones on Welsh road, Upper Dublin township, Saturday night.

The victim was Edward A. Sweeney, 61, an employee at the Willow Crest Convalescent Home, west of Willow Grove. He was killed almost instantly when run down by the car. According to Upper Dublin police, the machine was being operated by Jones.

Elmer Jett, 24, Sellersville, a passenger in the car, was treated at the Abington Hospital for cuts and abrasions of the face and head. He was hurt when the car, went out of control after striking Sweeney, and hit a pole. Sweeney, a veteran of World War I, had been working at the home as a janitor since the first of this month.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR MEAT FAMINE DENIED

OPA Official Claims Meat More Plentiful Now Than During The War

A "FACTUAL STUDY"

(Editor's Note: The following is the second of the two articles on the controversial meat crisis. In it, an OPA official, Rae E. Walters, says that meat is more plentiful now than at any time during the war. Walters points out that his office is located in the very heart of the nation's meat packing industry in Chicago and asserts his office should know. He denies charges made by the American Meat Institute in the first article yesterday that the OPA is responsible for both the meat "famine" and flourishing black markets. Walters declared that the OPA "if given the tools" can and will rid the country of the black market, and expressed hope that additional OPA investigators will be hired to stamp out illegal dealings.)

By Rae E. Walters

Chicago Regional Administrator of The Office of Price Administration (Written Expressly for I. N. S.)

CHICAGO, Apr. 18.—(INS)—The civilian supply of meat is more plentiful now than at any time during the war.

In 1946 this country will produce one-half billion pounds more meat than in 1945. The total production this year will be 36 per cent higher than the pre-war level. This estimate was made by the United States Department of Agriculture, and is based on a factual study of livestock production.

Meat is not scarce, when we think of meat supply in terms of civilian supplies during the war years. There are meat shortages in some

The State Police Say . . .

You must carry your cards. Contrary to the opinion of many motorists the law does not give him any length of time to report with either his operator's license or owner's card in the event he happens to be stopped by a police officer and does not have either. The law requires both cards be in the immediate possession of the operator at all times while operating a motor vehicle and provides a fine of $5.00 for failure to do so. If you are given any time to report with your cards, it's through individual courtesy of the officer stopping you.

KEEPING ONE'S PROMISES

Do you keep your word? And do you expect others to keep theirs—do you have a sense of outraged justice when promises are broken?

Don't answer too soon. Of course you think you keep yours, and in most matters undoubtedly you do.

But one of the sources of the creeping paralysis which is crippling America is a growing tendency by people in general to feel that promises are to be kept only when convenient.

It is perfectly idle to pretend that, as a whole, the American people are insisting on individuals or groups living up to their agreements.

Those who want to escape from promises have splended precedent. Many recent national leaders, and the government itself, have broken promises with impunity—even with pride.

President Roosevelt promised to "stop the deficits;" he left the biggest deficit of any ruler in history. He promised to reduce public payrolls and brought them up to more than three million.

Moreover, he promised to preserve the integrity of money, and instead threw the country off the gold standard, inflating the dollar one-third at a single step.

Early in his term the government itself violated a promise—a contract; it repudiated the "gold clause" in all its securities and other agreements.

President Truman has made many promises which have not been fulfilled. For example, he promised economy, and submitted the biggest peacetime budget in American history—nearly ten times normal and four times larger than the largest pre-war budget of his predecessor.

There have been generations when the public expected some attempt by its public officials to live up to promises—even campaign promises; and when violation of them would lead to a sharp flare-up of public temper. No election figures to date show any such tendency by the rank and file of American voters.

SEES MANY CHANGES IN BUCKS CO. FARMS

Greenawalt Reviews Types of Land Owners Throughout The Years

FEW TENANT FARMERS

SOLEBURY, Apr. 18.—"The Agricultural Situation in Bucks County" was the subject upon which County Agent William F. Greenawalt, Doylestown, spoke at a meeting of the Solebury Farmers' Club in Trinity Hall.

Mr. Greenawalt reviewed briefly the types of Bucks county land holders. Many years ago, he said, there were a great many tenant farmers. This, he said, was followed by a transition when the farms were operated by the owners themselves.

"Then gradually," said Mr. Greenawalt, "came the manager-operated farms, many of which are owned by wealthy people who live in cities and who make the farms their summer homes. Many city people have taken over hundreds of farms in the county and have made large capital investments." This, he said, is something the average farmer

ONE MAN'S OPINION . . .

By Walter Kierman (Distributed by International News Service)

UN HALL. (By Pipeline)—Dr. Lange charges that Spain is overrun with Spaniards and he can prove it!

Later on he may establish that almost as many Spaniards don't dare return to Spain as there are Poles who don't dare return to Poland.

But he has an airtight case — Franco not only is threatening the security of the world, but he didn't even get into the last war.

What kind of a peace-loving government is that?

Our government is loathe to get into this Spanish situation because it means helping Spanish Republicans — American Republicans have been in exile longer.

But Carroll Reece has wired Dr. Lange "Why bother with Spanish Republicans — American Republicans have been in exile longer."

Anyhow the Security Council has a new chairman and it's nice to start with a fresh argument.

I'm watching things for you but it's beginning to cloud up here.

GOOD FRIDAY TO BE FITTINGLY OBSERVED

For First Since Pearl Harbor City Buildings To Have Cross Illumination

PLAN SERVICES HERE

In the opinion of the Citizens' Good Friday Committee of which Edward J. Ronan, Phila., is chairman, Good Friday this year will be the greatest in the history of the movement. "For the first time since Pearl Harbor many office buildings in cities throughout the country will adopt Cross illumination on the eve of Good Friday."

"The lessons of the Cross are especially vital at this hour when mankind stands at the cross-roads where man must choose between the final choice between the brotherhood of man and a ruined world," President Truman recently wrote.

Pastors and congregations throughout Christendom will fittingly observe the day tomorrow.

A union three hour service will be observed on the afternoon of Good Friday, from 12 noon until three o'clock in St. James Episcopal Church.

Protestant clergymen of Bristol will participate, dwelling in turn on the seven last "words" of Christ from the Cross. The public is invited to participate, and the service is so arranged that individuals may enter or leave between the portions of the service.

The order of service, the speakers and their subjects, are here given. 12:00 noon, hymn, "There Is a Green Hill Far Away"; meditation, "The Victory of the Cross," the Rev. William Carroll, Harriman Methodist Church.

12:22 p. m., The First Word, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do"; hymn, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory"; meditation, Lehman Strauss, Calvary Baptist Church.

12:44. The Second Word, "Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise,"

Plant Trees in Honor of Two Who Gave Lives

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 18.—Two maple trees were planted on the Hulmeville school ground yesterday afternoon in memory of two former students of the local school who gave their lives while serving their country during World War II. The memories of Wallace Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, and of Harry Smith, son of Mrs. Mary Smith, were thus honored.

The ceremony was in charge of the school principal, Frank Binder, with invocation by the Rev. Richard R. Gay, pastor of Neshaminy Methodist Church. Also in attendance at the impressive ceremony were the parents of the deceased, and students of the eighth grade.

The first shovel of earth was placed on the tree by Harry Linsbinger, nephew and namesake of Harry Smith; and the first shovels of earth were placed on the roots of the other tree by Mr. and Mrs. Davis. The pupils assisted.

The project was sponsored by the Hulmeville-Middletown P. T. A. who secured the trees.

SCIENCE AND THE FUTURE

The long shadow of the atomic age was discernible at the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society in Atlantic City last week. The light that fell on Hiroshima has altered fundamental scientific thought, just as it has affected political thinking throughout the world. And it has brought the scientist out of the laboratory
into the realm of public affairs,
for men whose brains have unlocked the power of the universe
must feel a heavy weight of responsibility.

Perhaps more than any other group, the scientists understand the potentiality of atomic force as an instrument of death or an engine of production. They are virtually unanimous in certain conclusions, and their views should command respect in the momentous decisions that must be made by the people of the nation and the world.

The scientists see that national security and progress now depend on research more than ever. They agree with W. Albert Noyes, president-elect of the Chemical Society, who writes in a special convention edition of the Journal of Commerce that "if we desire to maintain our position of pre-eminence none of us can afford to see scientific effort put under restriction as regards free discussion and free publication. We must avoid wastage of effort which would ensure if our scientists did not know what is going on in foreign countries."

On the positive side, the scientists realize that the government must play a constructive and cooperative role. As Dean Frank
C. Whitmore of Pennsylvania
State College writes in the same publication: "The prime need is for fundamental long-range research. We must search out the truth wherever it lies. Governmental emphasis on applied research must be carefully avoided.
American industry is educated to the point of pushing applied research. One weakness of the future will be the lack of new fundamental knowledge to be applied by those in a position to develop and make available its practical applications."

The scientist's vision, unclouded by political controversy in his search for pure truth, is clear. He looks into the future, knowing that man has only himself to fear.
The man of science has learned to submerge prejudices and narrowness in devotion to a common cause.

"Scientists," says Dr. Noyes,
"do have a common language and can sit around the table in amicable discussion. Perhaps their example could alleviate some of the distrust so prevalent today." And perhaps their example may point to the day when the statesmen of the world, too, will speak a common language—the language of peace.

If the meat shortage persists,
there will be two chickens in every pot right up to the point of nausea.

Mr. Truman's bulge in the price line is beginning to resemble a tidal wave.

"STEP RIGHT UP, SUCKER!"

Why? There can be only one answer: the individual himself has lost some of his one-time feeling of the sanctity of promises. The moral fiber of the people has been weakened. The population is suffering from what the religious sometimes describe as "materialism."

That this is true is easily provable in a variety of unrelated fields. The breakdown of sound morality is reflected in juvenile delinquency, the waning power of churches, rising divorce rates, the upsurge of all kinds of gambling—even in so remote a matter as the "git-out-of-my-way" driving so conspicuous on the highways.

Nowhere has the feeling that promises can be broken at will been more noticeable than in labor relations. Labor agreements, from the point of view of certain unions, have ceased to be more than scraps of paper. Scores of strikes were called during the war in defiance of written and signed contracts promising no wartime strikes.

Likewise with the wage strikes since the war; one after another is in direct violation of the promises of the agreement. Yet neither the President, Congress nor the public has insisted that reasonable efforts be made to live up to such promises and contracts.

A recent development in this field is exceptionally interesting because it involves those usually considered the principal custodians of morals and idealism—the public school teachers.

In many localities, teachers have demanded pay raises this spring. Yet nearly all teachers everywhere work by contract; last summer they signed agreements stating that, in return for so much money as salary, they would perform so much work—teach for the term.

Certainly these teachers can read and write; certainly they know the terms of the agreements they signed. Precisely how do they now justify, even in their own minds, an attempt to wriggle out of promises made in good faith?

Do they seriously think the example thus set for their pupils, now in formative stage of life, is a good one?

It is difficult to evaluate the final significance of all these current trends. They may be merely symptoms of the inflation which has been spiralling upwards for years. They may be a new phase of an old delusion, that there really is some way of getting "something for nothing." They may be the end results of the fraudulent economic and social philosophies of Karl Marx and others,
the body of "ideology" now flowering as Communism.

It may be a passing phase, which will reverse itself upon the coming of some change or calculated event; or it may be the prelude to a debasement of morals unprecedented since the Middle Ages.

But of some points one may be certain. For one thing, the morals of government will never be higher than those of the people governed. And for another, America will never—not in a thousand years—regain the world leadership she once held until the courage, determination and integrity of the American people themselves
is restored.

Fears of the War and State Departments that under the House extension of Selective Service this country could not meet its international obligations were shared by Britain and other nations.

A Republican-Democratic coalition in the House so amended the OPA extension bill that Administrator Porter said the action
amounted to the repeal of price control. The OPA authorized price increases of 12 to 15 per cent on work clothes.

Reconversion has been badly hurt
by the soft-coal strike. Government officials said. Negotiations in the 92-day-old Westinghouse strike will be resumed today for the first time in a month.

Mrs. Christopher Johnson and Francis Bodine spent from Friday until Sunday visiting friends and relatives in Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Nellie Thatcher, Trenton,

Pvt. Benjamin Mazzocchi reported back to Fort Meade, Md., the latter part of last week, after

was clearly warned in 1942 that it would ultimately regret the contract.

BUT that sort of recrimination is not worth while now. The big thing is that the Red Cross is free again
—relieved of a bad bargain, distasteful to the bulk of its friends, damaging to its morale, injurious to its cause, defensible only on the ground of expediency. It was a bargain that forced its spokesmen into evasive, insincere and misleading explanations, compelled them to defend an arrangement of which
in their hearts they did not approve.

WHATEVER financial sacrifice may be involved in ending it will not be great. Actually it is doubtful that there will be any at all. For one thing, it is impossible to verify the large claims made of the money raised under the contract since 1941. The estimates put out are largely guesses. For another, the comparison of figures under the contract and before the contract is not honest. For the very important fact that prior to the contract we were not in the war and that after 1941 we were, is inexcusable unmentioned. For still another, thousands of regular Red Cross contributors either reduced or canceled their gifts because of contract resentment. These easily might offset any drop in union contributions.

AT any rate, responsible Red Cross heads all over the country will be relieved not to have to make another campaign forced again to explain and defend—particularly in the next drive there will be no repetition of the "liberality"
of the rich corporations which in December, for the last time, under the excess-profits tax, were enabled to "generous" to all charities without costing themselves anything. It was in December the Red Cross obtained a large part of its funds in the recent drive. It cannot do that again—but, at least, it is free.

AND it never would have been free but for the publicity given the arrangement last October and November. Then, for the first time, the full implications of the contract were understood both inside and outside the Red Cross organization.
But for that publicity and the extraordinary protest that followed, this contract would have been permanently riveted upon the Red Cross. The Red Cross is well rid of
it. Every friend of the Red Cross should rejoice. Eventually, its health will be fully regained.

1941 a blood donor group was organized, and from November of that year until April, 1945, a total of 94 pints of blood were collected by the group under the leadership of Mrs. T. B. Megargee, chairman.

With James Harris as first aid man, eight first aid classes were held in 1941. Thereafter, throughout the war, 82 first aid classes were held. A home nursing class was started and these continued with Mrs. Walter Pitzonka, chairman.

From the beginning of 1942 until the fall of 1945 production records. Mrs. Clarence Moyer, section chairman, reports that women gave 41,600 hours to 2,581 garments, 925 knitted items and 140,500 surgical dressings.

1942 Mrs. Russell Delong succeeded Mrs. Duffham as chairman. E. P. Goslin became chairman of the Special Services. Misses Landreth and Joseph R. were chosen to represent Bucks Co. in the county department.

1943 a Canteen Corps was organized with Mrs. David M. Jr. as chairman. It has all its local blood donor assets as well as with the Bend district in providing refreshments for the blood donors. It has luncheons and suppers for participating in various war efforts and at the Valley Forge Hospital and the Philadelphia Naval Hospital. It will serve as a former institution on June 1.

The annual roll call from through 1945 a total of $162,000 was collected to help support the vital war activities of Red Cross.

Home Service work of the Red Cross showed a great increase during the war years. In the families of 118 men in active service came to the attention of Home Service Bristol Division.

trict of Lower Bucks Co. The families of 8 veterans and 48 civilians brought the total to 174. Contrast these figures with the 726 in active service, 91 veterans and 74 civilians making a total of 891 in 1945.

"Throughout the war period, as today, Miss Landreth served as home service chairman, and Mrs. Marie L. Holland, home service supervisor.

"Problems due to the absence of servicemen from home brought many families to Home Service for advice regarding family allowance, emergency furloughs and leaves because of serious illness and death at home. Financial assistance was granted families on the basis of need when family allowance checks were delayed.

"Many inquiries were made about overseas. Red Cross relayed these the health and safety of servicemen and secured reports which gave reassurance to the families back home.

Similar reports were sent to the soldiers who were making inquiries about their families at home.

"A great deal of work is now being done in assisting veterans with government claims and in giving financial assistance, when needed, while claims are pending.

"Home service, like all the other Red Cross activities in Bristol, is prepared to give whatever aid is needed to veterans or residents of this community."

ITHACA, N. Y. (INS) — Irrespective of humanitarian considerations, we can't be very effective in promoting international good will and co-operation unless we share our food with the starving nations and check waste at home, says Dr. L. A. A. TO OPEN WITH THERMOID ON 28TH

The Bristol A. A. baseball club has cancelled its game with the Chelsea Civic Club of Atlantic City, N. J., for this Sunday due to the fact uniforms will not arrive until the 26th of April.

The opening game will be played in Bristol on April 28th with the strong Thermoid Rubber Club in the opening game of the Trenton Industrial League.

Manager Mulholland says he is out to give Bristol fans a club they will be proud of. To do this a small fee for seats on the field will be charged.

Responsibility For Meat Famine Denied

areas but these shortages have resulted from maldistribution not from the lack of meat.

The assertion by meat packers and the American Meat Institute that the elimination of all controls in the meat and livestock industries will rid the country of the black market which, exists, is ridiculous. In China there are no controls, and the biggest black market that section of the world has ever known now exists. Black markets are occasioned by scarcities, not by price and slaughter controls.

The Office of Price Administration has maintained throughout the true and cry of the meat packing industry that it can and will channel meat into the hands of legitimate retailers and on into the consumers' refrigerators at nominal and fair prices if it is given the proper tools with which to do the job. The Office of Price Administration has also maintained that it can and will rid the nation of the black market which exists in the field of meat if it is given the tools with which to work.

Throughout the current controversy over the meat situation, the American Meat Institute and many of the packers have insisted that OPA regulations are unenforceable and that enforcement has completely broken down. Neither of these statements is true.

The regional office is located in the very heart of the meat packing industry. We know this story as OPA offices in no other part of the country know it. We know that, given proper weapons, OPA can do the now important job ahead of it... that of channeling meat into proper distribution channels.

Why do we know this fact? Because we successfully licked the black market and we successfully developed a proper distribution of the meat supply last year.

On April 1 OPA's regulations were amended to permit a closer control of custom slaughtering. Today, the Chicago metropolitan district office, through Director James F. Riley, told of the steps that office has taken since custom slaughtering came under our control. Yesterday the Office of Price Administration and the Department of Agriculture, in Washington, announced that a new livestock channeling program will be put into operation soon. That program, no doubt, will be basically similar to Slaughter Control Order No. 1 of last year.

We believe our enforcement division, especially here in the Middle West, will be enlarged to permit the hiring of additional investigators.

In closing, I would like to warn the American public that this is an all-out battle between those who want to keep consumer prices down and those who say—"Hang the customer, we want to make all the money we can now."

Another change cited by Mr. Greenawalt was that from horse power to mechanized farm equipment. The latter, he said, has caused serious soil erosion, and many farmers are practicing strip farming and are building contours and diversion ditches in an effort to overcome erosion.

WASH. APR. 18 (INS)—The Senate moved today into a battle over the proposal that the British Government be required to pledge its holdings in the United States as security for the proposed three and three quarter billion dollar loan.

Majority Leader Barkley, spearheading the Administration fight for Senate approval of the loan agreement, said he would take the floor to "analyze" the proposal of former Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones.

The proposal was brought into the Senate fight by Senator Stewart (D.) Tenn., foe of the loan. Stewart read an editorial Jones published in his Houston Chronicle, declaring that the British Government has three billion dollars in gold and in investments—much of it in insurance companies—in the United States.

Barkley said he wants to "analyze" at some length the British situation as to those holdings. Some of the holdings already are pledged to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, on a 499 million dollar loan which now has been reduced to 290 millions.

The British Investments Issue appeared certain to go to a showdown amendment fight. Sen. Carville (D.) Nev., said he will offer an amendment to require that Britain's government-held securities in the United States be posted as collateral for the loan.

Teachers Dislike School Board Decision No Bonus Allowed Salary Schedule No Help To Most Teachers

When the Bristol Teachers petitioned the school board for a cost of living bonus, it surely made the headlines of this paper in terms of $35,000. According to the reply from the school board, it appears that a newspaper headline is all that it netted the teachers, as the school board refuses any bonus what-so-ever. The teachers are very dissatisfied, but at present have no solution to their problem.

In the Wednesday edition of the Courier there appeared an announcement of the tentative salary schedule under consideration by the board. Mention was also made of a $100 annual increase in pay for all the teachers. As an increase in tax rate is also mentioned at the same time, it may be misinterpreted as being the cause of this tax raise and that the teachers are receiving special compensation for next year.

The present salary schedule under which the teachers are now employed is the Hare-Lee-Sollenberger Act which was passed by the State Legislature in 1945. This act requires that all third and fourth class districts continue annual increases of $100 until a maximum of $2100 for a year is reached. Teachers holding a Master's Degree are required to receive additional raises of $100 until a maximum of $2300 is attained. Under this act, the elementary teachers of Bristol and the majority of the high school teachers will receive $100 as required by the state, therefore the proposed salary schedule does not grant the teachers any increase in salary by action of the Board itself. The increase in salary for the year 1946-47 would be mandatory upon the Board by state action for most of the Bristol Teachers.

The proposed salary schedule offers a promise in the future to most teachers, conditions permitting the teachers may expect increases beyond the state maximum.

This proposed salary schedule and "NO BONUS" do not solve the present financial status of the Bristol teachers for this year or the next. The Bristol teachers desire livable wages NOW plus some promise for the future.

EXPECT 20 MILLION AT THE NAT'L PARKS

Average American Motorist
Will Take His Family
On A Trip

SEE A BIG SEASON

By International News Service

TOLEDO, O., Apr. 18—(INS)—The average American motorist is going to take his family on a trip this summer and indications are that some twenty odd millions will head straight for a National Park, according to officials of the National Park Service.

This expected record year can only be realized if motorists continue caring for the family automobile as they did during the war years, according to Royce G. Martin, president of The Electric Auto-Lite Company, world's largest independent manufacturer of automotive electrical parts.

"I am told that the National Park Service is sparing no effort to get the parks in readiness for a banner year," Martin said. "Whether or not the motorist gets there rests solely upon the shoulders of the motorist himself. Careful motor-car care today will insure a smoother and better trip next summer."

"All during the war we cautioned motorists to care for their automobiles, and that same advice is more important today than ever before not only to allow the vacation starved motorist to enjoy himself this summer, but also to prevent a breakdown in the private transportation system of the nation. New cars are being made, but not enough to meet the pent-up demands of the driving public. In many instances the old family car will have to do for many months."

Martin emphasized that plans are going ahead at headquarters of the National Park Service to care for the millions of Americans who long to view scenic grandeur. He explained:

"In Washington, A. E. Demaray, associate director of the National Park Service, has declared that every National Park will be open this summer on a pre-war status. In other words, all of the National Parks and National Monuments and all other vacation spots under the National Park Service will be ready for the motorists and tourists this summer."

"The all high record for visitors to all 168 National Park areas was in 1941, just before the war, when over 21,000,000 persons were counted. There was a total of 7,469,185 visitors in 1941. Last year the attendance totaled 8,546,316, an increase of 1,086,131 over the previous year.

"There are more than 21,000,000 acres in all of the 168 National Park areas, so, if all the 21,000,000 persons who visited these areas in 1941 made a visit at the same time, each would have an acre of land to himself."

Cooking Cosmopolites

Film Actor Eddie Bracken feels certain that men, as well as women, have that certain knack necessary to be a good cook. He proved it, too, one day on the set of a picture he was appearing in, by giving the entire cast and crew a special lesson in the preparation of French Fried Onions. Take a tip from Eddie Bracken and surprise the family with his special recipe. To prepare French Fried Onions ala Eddie Bracken, you will need:

1 cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 slightly beaten egg
1 cup milk
Onion rings (amount depends on how many to be served)
1 tablespoon deep fat

Sift the cup of flour with the salt. Mix the beaten egg with the milk, then add to flour and beat with a rotary egg beater until smooth. Dip the desired number of onion rings into the batter and fry in deep hot fat in a porcelain enameled fryer from two to five minutes. The porcelain enameled fryer, which heats quickly and cooks evenly, will assure a golden crispness, melting away to tender onion goodness. French Fried Onions are served to best advantage when combined with a thick steak or a tender beef roast.

Another popular movie star, Dana Andrews, gives this hint to housewives: To achieve a banquet flavor when cooking beef stew, add a small quantity of pickling spices to the meat and vegetables.

All of the full-bodied flavor of the beef will be retained if the stew is prepared in a porcelain enameled kettle. Since the stew will cook faster in this type of utensil, more of the natural juices of the meat will be kept intact, and none of the precious vitamins of the vegetables are lost in this type of ware.

Fortune smiles on those who make a habit of reading The Courier Want Ads.

One Porcelain Enameled Utensil Simmers, Stores, Re-Heats Meat

If simmered chicken, ham or tongue is not refrigerated soon after it has been cooked, flavor will be lost and the meat could spoil.

As soon as the meat or poultry has simmered sufficiently in a porcelain kettle, remove it from the boiling broth with 2 forks. Place it in a dish and cover loosely with waxed paper. Let the meat cool slightly, and then refrigerate it. When the porcelain enameled kettle of broth has cooled, place it in the refrigerator—in the same utensil in which the broth was cooked. After the broth and meat have cooled you may return the meat to the broth, and then store together. Cover in the refrigerator until you are ready to re-heat. The porcelain-on-steel kettle in which the meat was simmered can be used to refrigerate the broth.

Before re-heating, let the porcelain enameled kettle stand at room temperature for about half an hour. It is then ready for the burner.

You simmer, refrigerate and re-heat your meat and it takes only one porcelain enameled utensil.

Now It's Frozen Pastry Dough

A maximum of time can be saved by making a large recipe for pastry at one time. Wrap it well in waxed paper and store in a porcelain enameled utensil in the refrigerator.

Aside from the convenience of having it on hand, the thorough chilling in the porcelain enameled utensil makes the dough flakier and easier to handle. As small or as large an amount as needed can be cut off at a time from the piece, rolled out and baked. Store the remaining dough in the porcelain enameled pan so it will keep fresh-tasting.

Coffee Customs

People the world over drink coffee, but in Ethiopia and Somalia the natives eat it. They mold ripe coffee berries, leaves, and hulls mixed with fat into balls the size of apples.

This strange method of consuming coffee certainly would not help solve your own coffee-making problems. However, here is an idea that will. For a better brew, make coffee in a gleaming porcelain enameled coffee maker. Your beverage will not only keep steaming longer, but will have that delectable, fragrant flavor coffee drinkers enjoy.

To get the best results in cooking rice, first wash it thoroughly. Place 1 cup of rice and 1½ cups of water and a teaspoon of salt in the top of a porcelain enameled double boiler. Cover and cook until tender—about 40 minutes.

STILL UNDERGROUND

LONDON (INS) — Headquarters of Britain's railways is still in its underground war-time retreat—in the disused London Down—street tube station. The tube station, closed several years before the war, was taken over by the Ministry of Transport in 1939 and throughout the war 75 of the Railway Executive Committee staff worked, slept and lived there.

SPEEDWAY IS TO BE REOPENED IN MAY AT LANGHORNE

5 Qualifiers For 500-Mile Indianapolis Memorial Day Race To Appear

A NEW OWNERSHIP

Sale Price Named By Hamid For Speedway Is Given At About $50,000

LANGHORNE, Apr. 18 — Five of the qualifiers for the 500-mile Memorial Day automobile race at Indianapolis Speedway will race here when big car competition is revived at Langhorne in May.

Jimmy Frattone, of Ardmore, recently purchased the Langhorne track and is busily engaged in supervising extensive improvements for his opening show on Sunday, May 26th.

Frattone has already opened negotiations with drivers throughout the nation. He will go to Indianapolis when qualifying starts for the 500-mile classic.

More than 200 drivers are expected to attempt to qualify for the Indianapolis event, which will be held Thursday, May 30, or four days after Langhorne's opening show. Drivers have until May 29 to qualify for the Indianapolis race. The race is limited to 32 starters.

Usually the field for the 500-mile grind is pretty well determined at least a week before the date of the event. Frattone hopes to bring the five drivers with the fastest qualifying times at Indianapolis at that time here for the May 26th opening at Langhorne. They will come here by plane, arrangements having already been made.

The five Indianapolis drivers will compete against the field in open events. They also will race in a special 10-mile test of speed limited only to them.

Frattone purchased Langhorne from George Hamid for approximately $50,000. More than $20,000 is being spent on improvements. The track has been badly neglected since the late Lucky Tetter staged the last big race there in May, 1942.

The 30-year-old operator from Ardmore has ordered almost complete rebuilding of the stands. A large ticket office and headquarters is being built. The track will have sanitary toilet facilities for the first time. Concrete walks are being laid around the stands as work progresses rapidly.

Following his May 26th opening, Frattone will stage three other AAA shows at Langhorne on June 30, August 1 and October 13. He also will stage a Midget Classic on Labor Day.

There will be no shrinkage or smoky oven splattering if you roast your pork at low heat (375 degrees) in an uncovered porcelain enameled pan. You do not need to use water; and, since the fat side is up, the roast is self-basting. This will give you wonderful gravy.
